DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. Previous rejections not mentioned below are withdrawn.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 7-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Elnagar et al (USPN 6809205; 10/26/04). Elnagar teaches the formation of a feed produced by the mixing of an inorganic base (alkali metal bromide), a brominating agent (Br₂) and/or chlorinating agent (Cl₂, hypochlorite anion) and water (column 3 lines 9-26). The combination of ingredients would result in an aqueous formulation comprising an alkali metal salt such as sodium bromide plus bromine plus chlorine plus hypochlorite. The prior does not disclose the instant amount of each ingredient. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art determine the optimum amount of each ingredient. This a routine practice done in the by one of skill in the art.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-18 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 1 of U.S. Patent No. USPN 6696041.

Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both instant invention and USPN '041 make claim to a nasal spray. USPN '041 makes claim to a method comprising a nasal spray. USPN '041 claims that the nasal spray comprises about 0.5 - 50000 ppmw; 0.1- 160,000 ppmw NaBr or NaCl; 55 - 75000 pppw NaCl , 0.01 - 5 wt % glycerin. The composition cited in USPN '041 reads on the instantly claimed composition. The inventions differ in that the instant invention solely makes claim to a nasal spray, whereas USPN '041 makes claim to a method comprising the nasal spray.
